EU update

EBU statement upon the vote in the Legal Affairs Committee on Marrakesh Treaty legislation

We are happy that there has been a legislative agreement in the EU which opens the door for swift EU ratification of the Marrakesh Treaty. The agreement means that cross-border exchange of copyrighted books will be legal without the permission of rightsholders for non-profit uses to serve blind and visually-impaired persons.

Feature

The European Accessibility Act a promise for more accessibility for blind and partially sighted EU citizens?

The European accessibility act pursues a horizontal approach that comprises a wide range of products and services in different sectors and seeks to bridge gaps in other legislative acts, and which would fill the term accessibility with life and concrete meaning.
